

Data Analyst

We have the following job opportunity in our New York City office:

Description

TransRe's arrangements with "third-party" providers of alternative reinsurance capital have increased in number, size, scope, complexity, and relevance. In supporting this growth, the Data Analyst's goal is to create tools and use their knowledge of data processing software and business strategies to provide sound business decisions to TransRe executives. Responsibilities required of this role include but are not limited to:

- Developing an understanding of TransRe's business models, financial systems, catastrophe modeling and basic accounting
- Creating a new process for quarterly reporting that is standardized, scalable and automated
- Building reports and dashboards using Excel, PowerBI or Tableau
- Managing critical relationships with internal and external business and technology partners
- Solving ambiguous analyses with less well-defined inputs and outputs
- Communicating complex analytical insights and business implications effectively

Requirements

- Bachelor's degree in a field such as mathematics, statistics, economics, finance or computer science
- Proficiency with SQL / Snowflake and coding skills in languages such as R and Python
- Experience with big datasets, reporting and data visualization skills
- Strong analytical and problem-solving skills
- Ability to set and meet deadlines along with an ability to work in high-pressure situations
- Excellent communication skills attention to detail

Work schedule will be hybrid with approximately 3 days in the office and the remainder remote
